Red Army Troops Storm At Gates Of Mogilev And Gomel

STRONGEST DRIVE CENTERED IN AREA

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Oct. 2.—Victorious Red army troops stormed today at the gates of Mogilev and Gomel, the southern and middle strongpoints of the German line guarding the Polish border, after almost unchecked Soviet drives overran more than 400 Nazi-held towns.

A Soviet midnight communiqué announced that Mogilev, Vitebsk, Orsha and Dzanhoi were bombed and Nazi troop trains and railway junctions were hit. Vitebsk is the top key position of the German Dnieper defense line.

Red army forces are making their most important assaults and strategic gains on a 300-mile line almost parallel to the Polish border. In a visit to the front, Hitler recently called this defense position "The fatherland's lifeline" and ordered Nazi troops to hold it "at all costs."

An announcement of Soviet gains yesterday claimed the capture of Ryazna, 37 miles northeast of Mogilev, and Mollitichi, 46 miles due east. This follows the familiar Russian pattern of simultaneous flanking and frontal assaults. Red spearheads are now less than 30 miles from Mogilev.

German efforts to hold their forces intact in an orderly retreat left the far-flung battleline littered with abandoned stores, ammunition and artillery, the Reds said.

More than 4,500 Nazi troops were crushed before the onrushing Soviet steamroller, the midnight communiqué announced.

Front dispatches said the Red army crossed the Sozh river to the north of Gomel to enter important suburbs of the town.

Silent On One Front

For the second day Soviet communiques failed to mention any fighting on the important middle Dnieper front. German and Russian forces evidently have dug in here and apparently no decisive action is going on.

Meantime, however, big guns of

PA NEW OBSERVES

Flocks of birds migrating south, which make a temporary stop in this section every fall, appear to have arrived for their yearly stay. The noise of hundreds of the birds in the trees can be heard in many sections of the city where trees are numerous. Usually a considerable flock preempts the trees in the public square, but this contingent apparently has been delayed somewhere enroute as yet.

Indications today are that the district, which has been experiencing a long dry spell, will get some rain. In the areas outside New Castle where well water supplies are depended upon, rain is badly needed. Pa New is told. A heavy rain would result in bringing the leaves down rapidly from the trees, and would also aid crops which have been planted this fall.

Sweeping the litter off the sidewalks into the streets, causes an unattractive appearance to downtown streets. In some cities, notably New York this practice is forbidden by city laws.

With bids opened for resurfacing of East Washington street and Highland avenue, at Harrisburg, it is expected that the state highway department will act speedily in awarding the contract, so that the work can be done this fall.

More Potato Eating Will Now Be Urged

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 2.—(INS)—A program to encourage home storage and increase the consumption of potatoes, it was announced today, will be put into effect in Pittsburgh area by the war food administration.

William M. Walsh, district WFA director, disclosed that persons who enjoy the proper storage facilities will be asked to purchase their entire stock of potatoes for the winter at one time as a means of protecting the bumper crop grown this year.

The potato crop is expected to be about 30 to 50 per cent above normal this season, and attempts are being made to popularize the consumption of spuds so that rationed foodstuffs will be consumed in less quantities.

U. S. Bombers Make History In Raid On Germany From Africa

By GRAHAM HOVEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Oct. 2.—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators, which proved African bases could launch aerial as well as land invasions pointed at the Reich, today were revealed to have driven through heavy opposition to bomb German and Austrian military targets in yesterday's history-making raid.

Heavy enemy fighter forces and intense flak were encountered by the American heavy bombers, operating for the first time from northwest African bases against the Reich itself.

ABDUCTED NURSE GIVEN FREEDOM

Released At Camden, N. J., After Being Captive Of Asylum Inmate 24 Hours

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 2.—(INS)—Pretty 26-year-old Miss Clara Murray has had many experiences during her career as a nurse but none as harrowing as the one which she survived today.

Enroute to her home in Honesdale, Pa., Miss Murray, held captive for more than 24 hours by an escaped inmate of the Pennsylvania State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, told how it feels to have a gun poked in the back by a madman and ordered to drive from town to town.

The nurse's plight was discovered Thursday following the escape of 22-year-old Eugene Caster. Threatening her with what she was convinced was a gun, Caster ordered the young woman to take him to her car and drive him away from the institution.

Yesterday morning, the nurse was able to get to a telephone in Camden and called her father in Honesdale. She told of her captivity, reassuring, however, that "he's not vicious and hasn't hurt me."

Then, just before the connection was broken, she appealed: "I'm all right but he won't let me go. Please come and get me."

Miss Murray told Camden police that after she called her father, Caster forced her to drive to Atlantic City and several other shore resorts.

Last night, she and Caster returned to Camden, she said, and he permitted her to step from her automobile to freedom and drove off. Before leaving, however, he presented her with the "gun"—a piece of carved soap painted black.

Miss Murray, nervous and shaken, told detectives she believed Caster freed her because he was "out of funds."

Police found the car abandoned a short distance away, but Caster was still at large today.

Russia Insists Conference Be Held At Moscow

Rejects Suggestion That Forthcoming Meeting
Take Place In London

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—It was learned authoritatively today that Russia has rejected the American suggestion that the forthcoming meeting of United States, British and Soviet foreign ministers be held in London instead of Moscow.

The Soviet government is insisting that the meeting take place at Moscow, as originally planned.

Expect Hull To Go

Secretary of State Cordell Hull is now expected to go to Moscow to attend the conference, which probably will meet about the middle of this month.

The State Department has suggested that the meeting be held in London instead of Moscow in order to spare Secretary Hull the long air travel involved in making the trip to Russia. The Soviet government was reluctant to agree to the change.

FRENCH FORCES MAKE GAINS IN CORSICA BATTLE

ALGIERS, Oct. 2.—(INS)—French forces, seeking to complete the liberation of Corsica, today were in control of two important northern passes, then threatening to thwart evacuation efforts.

While San Stefano pass was falling to French army units, fierce Moroccan Goumiers joined regular army forces to seize San Leonardo pass, a French headquarters communiqué revealed.

Violent German counter-attacks were thrown back, and a number of prisoners and considerable war equipment was seized.

The communiqué said, pointedly: "In the course of the recent battles, our troops have forced the enemy to give up ground everywhere and to abandon positions that were essential for the defense of Bastia."

Among the localities taken by the liberating forces were Barchetta and two other towns in the Golo Valley.

BUS STANDEES IN CONTROVERSY

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 2.—(INS)—A dispute over standees in busses between the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines and its AFL union drivers was expected to be certified to the War Labor Board today.

Stencher Eddy, a federal labor conciliator, recommended the action after a deadlock developed and threatened to result in a widespread tieup of the bus system. Eddy said 80 or 90 of the company's 800 to 900 drivers had been suspended by the management since Sept. 20 for refusing to pull their busses out of Cincinnati and Columbus terminals with standees in the busses.

A conference attended by union representatives and S. R. Sundstrom, company president, brought no settlement of the dispute. Eddy said the union refused to agree to an arbitrator unless the company first agreed to withdraw the suspensions.

Sundstrom pointed out at the conference that the taking of standees on busses was ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation. The union contended that loading of busses beyond seating capacity imperiled the safety of the passengers and drivers.

HOW ALLIES TOOK NAPLES

With the fall of Naples less than a month after the Allied invasion of Italy, beaten German forces are retreating to their next defense line in the hills north of Rome, about 135 miles away. Lower part of the Italian boot is now completely in the hands of the Allies, and the Allies now will march on the Italian capital.

More Towns Taken

Two more important towns were picked up during the night by Montgomery's troops driving north from the air base of Foggia.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced the capture by the British under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery of San Severo and Lucera.

Troops of the Eighth Army have occupied San Severo and Lucera and advanced to the northwest of these towns," the communiqué said.

It was indicated from this "northwest advance" that Gen. Montgomery may be sweeping his forces in a diagonal drive across the Italian Peninsula to intercept the retreating forces of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring which yesterday fled Naples.

DETECTIVE SHOT IN PITTSBURGH

Widespread Search Is On For Ex-Convict Alleged To Be Slayer

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 2.—(INS)—Police of eight states spread a vast dragnet today for a small-time ex-convict who allegedly shot and killed one of Pittsburgh's best known detectives while resisting arrest on a burglary charge last night.

Object of the extensive search was Matthew Korera, alias Matthew Hozera, steel city hoodlum of long standing, following a running gun battle with Detective Albert T. Lorch, veteran of many an encounter with the underworld who was shot to death attempting to take Korera in.

Officer Rudolf Taylor of the Shaler township police, who aided Lorch in the struggle with the former convict, said Korera wrested the detective's service revolver away from him in a scuffle, and then emptied the gun into Lorch.

According to a police broadcast, Korera, who is between 33 and 35 years, five feet eight inches tall and of Russian descent, was wanted originally for the hold up of a Shaler township tavern in which about $125 was taken in addition to 17 bottles of liquor.

Gen. Eisenhower Announces
Allied Troops Moving
Beyond Naples

GERMAN FORCES BEING PURSUED

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Oct. 2.—Victorious troops of the Allied Fifth and Eighth armies began the task of building a highway of liberation to Rome today by scoring new advances on all fronts following the capture of Naples.

Whichever corps of engineers went to work to repair the Nazi-devastated harbor of Naples and convert it into a supply base for Allied reinforcements, forces of Lieut. Gen. Mark Wayne Clark's United States Fifth Army and of the British Eighth Army under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery pounded their way through formidable terrain guarding Rome itself from onslaught.

Two more important towns were picked up during the night by Montgomery's troops driving north from the air base of Foggia.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced the capture by the British under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery of San Severo and Lucera.

R. A. F. Bombs Westphalia

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The Air Ministry announced today that Royal Air Force bombers carried out a "heavy attack" last night upon Hagen in the Westphalia section of Germany.

Two RAF bombers were listed as missing from the raid.

Hagen, an important railway junction, lies at the confluence of the Ennepe and Volme rivers. It is on the main railroad to Brunswick and Berlin, and other rail lines connect with the vital Westphalian iron district.

It has extensive iron and steel works, as well as large plants engaged in manufacturing leather, paper and cotton goods. There are large limestone and alabaster quarries in the vicinity.

MINE LAYER SUNK
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The total of American naval vessels sunk since beginning of the war was raised to 119 today when the navy announced the U. S. mine layer Skill was sent to the bottom of the gulf of Salerno Sept. 25.

The Skill went down after an underwater explosion. The navy has not been informed whether the vessel hit an enemy mine or was struck by a torpedo.

U-Boats Renew Atlantic Battle

Survivors Reaching Canadian Port Tell Of Ten-Day Attack

NUMEROUS SHIPS SENT TO BOTTOM

(International News Service)
AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 2.—Weary survivors who reached this port told on Friday of a massed U-boat attack on their fleet of merchant and naval ships in a ten-day North Atlantic battle, described as "the hottest thing on the run in two years."

The battle started in the mid-Atlantic a week ago Saturday and continued practically until the last ship of the convoy had passed into this harbor.

The exact number of ships lost by the Allies remained a naval secret. One officer estimated three escorts were lost and another probably sunk and more than half a dozen merchant ships sunk.

One Canadian four-stacker destroyer, St. Croix, was lost. The St. Croix was sunk with only one member of her 147-man crew surviving. Survivors believe it was blown up by a torpedo sent into the powder magazine.

Attacked In Packs
One officer of a surviving ship told how the U-boats attacked in packs and dogged the convoy all the way to Canada. They scored their successes despite heavy seas and thick fog. He described the battle as "close second to the Murmansk run fights, in which he had taken part."

"They stuck with us like leeches," he said. "It was impossible to shake them off. They picked on our escorts just as much as merchant ships."

Another survivor, U. S. Overly, said he knew of at least two U-boats sunk by escorts ships and at least six others damaged.

"You can tell people that the battle of the Atlantic is not over by a long shot," he declared. "The Germans are sacrificing strength for speed in their submarines in a desperate attempt to cut the life-line."

remaining enemy forces on the northern end of Vella Lavella island.

Concerning action at Finschafen, MacArthur's communique said: "Our forces are enveloping and closing in on the town, our advance elements are near Cape Cretin."

Allies Advance
Cape Cretin, on the northernmost tip of Huon gulf lies within a mile of Finschafen on the south side of Vitiavai strait.

In the Ramu valley of New Guinea, allied forces advanced to the Ramu river, seven miles north-west of Marawasa.

The aerial attack against the enemy convoy occurred in Bougainville strait as the Japs apparently sought to reinforce or supply the remaining enemy positions in the Solomons.

Allied airmen were active in other sectors of the far-flung southwest Pacific front north and east of Australia. The communique told of attacks upon the waterfront and shipping in the harbor of Sorong at Ceram Boela, both New Guinea, and fires started at Manulito, Timor.

An "ineffective" enemy air raid on Munda, New Georgia, also was reported.

U. S. BOMBERS MAKE HISTORY IN RAID ON GERMANY

Germany and shot down eight. They then went on to drop their bombs in the Munich area, directly hitting several buildings.

Despite a force of between 75 and 80 enemy aircraft, and anti-aircraft fire called "the heaviest we've ever encountered" by crews, as well as thick clouds, the Liberators scored direct hits on the Henschel Aircraft factory in the Wiener Neustadt area.

Direct hits were scored also on the main building of the nearby Styrian plant, producing armored vehicles, and also on hangars in the vicinity.

Other Attacks
Meanwhile, other Fortresses dropped bombs on a large enemy convoy east of Corsica, scoring at least one direct hit. They also showered bombs on a highway south of Leghorn, on the Ligurian Sea.

RAF Wellington bombers pounded pontoon bridge in the Grazziano area, 10 miles northwest of Naples, last night. They also hit the city's coastal road, and a factory at Formia, northwest of Naples on the Gulf of Gaeta.

It was announced that Lightnings escorted the first part of the way but the huge four-motored craft crossed the Alps into Germany unescorted.

One enemy fighter was shot down by Staff Sgt. Benjamin Warner (348 Hayes St., San Francisco, former FBI bodyguard for Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, who has eleven victories. He recently got the DISC from Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz, head of the Northwest African Air force.

Longest Flight
The American Forts negotiated the longest flight from northwest African bases they covered an 1,800-mile round trip to unidentified targets in the Munich region.

Simultaneously, the Liberators attacked the Messerschmitt Fighter factories at Wiener Neustadt, 25 miles south of Vienna, an official air communique revealed.

On both raids, the heavy bombers encountered enemy fighters. The communique indicated, however, there was no immediate official announcement regarding the raiders' losses, if any.

Results of both raids were not accurately observed, due to clouds that prevailed over the targets. Nevertheless, airmen returning from the Wiener Neustadt assault said many of the bombs were seen falling in the target area.

First Raids Of Kind
The Liberators participating in the raid on the Messerschmitt plant consisted of planes of the Eighth United States Army Air Force, which ordinarily is based in Britain but flying under command of the Northwest African Air Forces. Other participants included craft formerly with the Ninth Air Force in the Middle East.

Although American heavy bombers from Northwest Africa have bombed targets in Southern France and those from the Middle East have pounded Austrian objectives, yesterday's raids were the first made against the Greater Reich by craft of the Northwest African Air Forces.

The Swiss government earlier had been quoted in a Bern broadcast as announcing that "several" planes were shot down over Eastern Switzerland at noon yesterday when Flying Fortresses engaged German fighters. One Fort was said to have been shot down by Swiss anti-aircraft fire.

The aerial attack against the enemy convoy occurred in Bougainville strait as the Japs apparently sought to reinforce or supply the remaining enemy positions in the Solomons.

Allied airmen were active in other sectors of the far-flung southwest Pacific front north and east of Australia. The communique told of attacks upon the waterfront and shipping in the harbor of Sorong at Ceram Boela, both New Guinea, and fires started at Manulito, Timor.

Secretary Hull, who celebrates his 72nd birthday today is resting at Hot Springs, Va. preparatory to leaving for the conference. It is expected that W. Averell Harriman, the newly appointed American ambassador to Russia will accompany Hull to Moscow.

The American delegation also is expected to include H. Freeman Matthews, chief of the State Department's European division, and Charles Boelen, head of the Russian division.

'BUSIEST GUN MAN' IS SOUGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The man behind the busiest gun in Chicago was hunted today by police who credited him with a box score of 20 murders in 20 years.

He is James "Red" Forsyth, alias Fawcett, a trigger man with a lucrative fellowship at the old Al Capone school of business and bullets. "Big Red" is now billed as one of the two men still sought in the killing of Martin "Sonny Boy" Quirk in the south side gambling war.

This was the information disclosed by Capt. Daniel J. Gilbert head of the state's attorney's police who said, "A murder a year—or 20 murders in the last 20 years—can be attributed to Forsyth."

Because barricades have been erected and the Grant street bridge closed to traffic, T. C. Moore of the bus company has arranged the West Side operation as follows: Jefferson to Grant street thence down Shenango street to West Washington street and Greenwood avenue to the Pottery. The return trip is via State street, Greenwood avenue and West Washington street to the city line thence east on West Washington street to the city line thence east on West Washington to Public Square.

Green Opposes Incentive Pay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today strongly opposed incentive pay schemes to spur war production.

Green criticized the proposals in an editorial on the subject for the October issue of the American Federationist, which also carried a lengthy article attacking such plans.

"These formulas are obviously nothing but a series of opinions," Green said. "They are not nearly so scientific as the going rates negotiated by management and unions, based on past experience and tested by capacity to produce and pay."

The AFL chief said that a labor-management relationship which satisfies workers that they are receiving a square deal is far better than incentive pay schemes.

Delaying Tactics
In leaving Naples, Kesselring immediately resumed his delaying and obstructionist tactics and challenged Clark's spearhead with a stiffening amount of armor and machine guns to interfere with every mile of the northward passage.

A similar reluctance to retreat marked German resistance north and northeast of Avellino where sharp rearguard clashes developed yesterday.

The right wing of the Fifth Army edged forward, encroaching lengthwise upon important highways and threatening the focal point of Benevento on the Volturna river.

Montgomery in the 48 hours ending at 4 p. m. Friday gained approximately 30 miles up the Adriatic coast, occupying the entire hump northeast of Foggia with only slight opposition.

Consolidates Grip
Montgomery's spur consolidated the Allied grip on the Foggia network, accentuating the threat to the Germans' Volturna line.

With the battle for Central Italy under way and Rome beckoning, Clark's troops got a terrific welcome in Naples. Italian emotions burst out freely as a Vesuvius eruption giving the bleeding city a festive atmosphere.

It was stated officially that the first British unit arrived in the city at 9:35 a. m. (2:35 a. m. EWT). By noon columns were marching under Clark's eyes though the whole city and despite extensive devastation of the harbor sector, maintained an orderly appearance.

The Germans affected a systematic evacuation of their own troops and material.

Before nightfall American and British troops were policing the entire city.

A quick inspection disclosed that the central part of the city largely was intact with the exception of concussion damage such as broken windows.

The Italians claim that the Germans, before they were driven, mined the city streets. Neapolitans pulled out the mines, but some damage was caused in the central and eastern sections of the city. Police headquarters which contained many documents were blown up and the port railway station was ruined.

As the president of the United States is the commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, and the law decrees that the secretary of the navy must be a civilian, the senior officers of our Navy are both civilians.

POSSIBILITIES IN THE AEGEAN

AMERICA is getting less news from the Aegean sea these days than from any other front. This strongly suggests that a play is developing there which is being screened from view. There are several powerful Allied armies in that region and their active participation in battle may be imminent.

It has been disclosed that the Allies have seized three key islands in the Aegean sea and that a new battle area has been established in the approaches to the Balkan peninsula. Allied planes have bombed Crete and Rhodes and the air fields around Athens.

Holding Samos, Leros and Kos of the Dodecanese group along the Turkish coast, Allied forces have strategic outposts deep within the defenses the Nazis threw around Greece in 1941. Samos, the largest of the three, is east of Athens and closer to it than either Crete or Rhodes. All three of the islands have air fields and Leros was the main Italian naval base in the Aegean.

German island positions are outflanked and presumably the Nazis could not effectively parry an Allied thrust into the Balkans. One possible route of penetration mentioned is through Saloniki, near the mouth of the Vardar river, historic approach of armies from the south to central Europe.

Reports have filtered through that a powerful Allied fleet is in the Aegean. Air forces are being built up. There are perhaps a million troops in the region. The situation can lend itself to another great amphibious operation, perhaps in conjunction with one out of Italy into Albania. Doors to the Balkans are swinging open and that troubled peninsula may be making big headlines before long.

PACIFIC JUNGLES

As soon as the Allies obtain land bases for attacks from the air against the mainland of Japan, the final and decisive stages of the Pacific war will be reached, in the opinion of Brig. Gen. Lewis E. Woods, a Marine Corps aviation officer who returned recently from Guadalcanal. He ventured no guess as to the length of time required to obtain such bases.

There is nothing at all on the South Pacific islands except jungle, he reported. Everything America has there had to be brought in by ship. It is hard to visualize what American boys on that front are up against, he said, because there is nothing in the United States with which to compare it.

In the rainy season the mud is three feet deep on most of the islands. Fifty-five days was required to clear one short air-fighter strip because of the density of the jungle. Men had to struggle with the problem of unloading 50,000 gallons of gasoline a day for transportation through the jungle to the air fields during the fighting on Guadalcanal.

American troops in the Southwest Pacific are doing vital spade work under tremendous difficulties. As soon as that spade work is completed, those massive strokes which General MacArthur says will bring certain defeat to the Japs will be initiated.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The week of October 3-9 has been set aside by proclamation of President Roosevelt as National Fire Prevention Week.

Fire losses have been on the increase in the last two years, according to the National Fire Protection Association, despite the present need to conserve all the nations' resources and manpower for the prosecution of the war.

Homeowners, farmers, factory workers, and industrialists are urged to join in the campaign to eliminate the causes of fire from the national scene, and to learn how to combat fire wherever and whenever it does break out.

In a statement endorsing fire prevention week, Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen, says, "Fire is a triple waste in that it attacks buildings, equipment and materials alike. It stops production and causes waste of precious man hours so sorely needed."

Fire can be guarded against by care and by observing prevention measures gained through long research and experience by people who have made it their life's work."

MAIL IT BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Warning is given that too few families of service men are taking the very sound advice to "mail early" if they want their loved ones in far away posts and battle areas to get Christmas gifts on time.

It's true that the Postoffice department fixed October 15 for Army overseas personnel and November 1 for Navy men as the deadlines. But if most people wait until those late dates, or near them, shipping space will be swamped beyond capacity.

No one likes to think of soldiers and sailors passing Christmas Day without suitable remembrances from home. The slogan for their families, or anyone wishing to send gifts of this nature, should shift quickly to "Mail It Now."

LET'S CALL A SPADE—A SPADE

Unless Congress votes otherwise, the Social Security tax will automatically be doubled from one to two per cent this year. And, if some Washington planners have their way, it may even be increased to five per cent. This money might and probably would be used for the war, which means that afterward we would be paying all over again to make up the difference.

No American wants to get out of paying his share of the war cost. But let's call it that and not try to delude ourselves by tricks of book-keeping.

Americans are sufficiently adult to be able to know where their money is going and why.

Frank Durfee, still living in Massachusetts, drove the first gasoline buggy fifty years ago. At the time he failed to foresee the possibility of a gasoline shortage.

Many a fellow who thought he was a big cheese turned out to be only a ham.

If the Japs think they are having a hard time now in the Pacific, imagine what their reaction will be when the Americans really cut loose.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PUBLIC RIDICULE HURTS CHILD

"Some time in your column," writes a mother and president of a P. T. A., "I would appreciate your writing on 'Teacher's Using Ridicule' as a means of punishing students. By this I mean public ridicule which embarrasses students before their schoolmates and associates. I have found that in my home children resent being humiliated before other members of the family, so when I must reprimand them I try to talk it over with them when we are alone. Is this proper? Does public ridicule cause the child or youth to feel inferior?"

No practice at home or school, perhaps, can do the child or youth so much harm as ridicule, especially by older persons or by older children in the presence and with the approval of adults. From the youth's point of view ridicule is the least forgivable sin of a teacher, and the youth may be as much disturbed by ridicule when a classmate is a victim as when he himself is. Hundreds of parents write me or tell me at public forums of the sufferings of their children at school from public ridicule.

Teacher's Problem
Now and then a teacher in a conference or forum will defend ridicule as a means of discipline. She says that they have few means of control at school allowed them and that some smart alecks can be easily tamed by ridicule.

We must have some sympathy with the teacher. She has to put up with all too much disrespect and ill conduct by a few students, who have not learned at home, regard for authority or respect for the rights of others. Then some school principals will merely resort to a little sentimental talking when the chronically annoying student is sent by the teacher to him. Certainly not enough school principals stand back of their teachers as they should in problems of discipline.

Despite these facts, I don't believe that ridicule and sarcasm are desirable means of discipline. Even with the smart-aleck, the teacher usually can get farther by dealing with the disturbing student privately than by trying to humiliate him before the class.

Few Defect in Sarcasm
Nevertheless, not many teachers will defend sarcasm. Few use it on purpose. Rather, it is employed about as unconsciously as the wagging by a dog of its tail; and for a similar reason. Human nature prompts it. It gives a feeling of superiority to the teacher and the more the victim suffers the more satisfaction to the ridiculing teacher. The greater the victim's pleasure. When we realize this basic psychological fact we parents and teachers will hold ourselves on guard against resorting to this harmful practice at home, school or college.

Nor are we parents blameless. In fact, we offend more often than do teachers. There are no adults to intercede for the child against us. We even begin with the baby by making fun of his blunders and mistakes. And many a teen-age boy and girl is ruthlessly wounded by a parent's ridicule.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Should one try to be perfectly quiet after the baby is put to bed or should we let the child learn to adapt himself to the usual noise of the family?
A. The latter.

Q. What punishment is good to cure a child of nail biting?
A. None; use just the opposite—love, understanding and calm companionship. My special bulletin, "Nail Biting and Other Nervous Habits" may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Q. What about parties for children under 12?
A. They usually do more harm than good, particularly where there are gifts by the guests, and prizes. Excepting a birthday party, perhaps, informal small gatherings of children under twelve or fourteen are a far greater educational value than regular parties. This is particularly true for the lonely timid child.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Mr. Gen. Lewis E. Hershey, national director of Selective Service: "Management and management alone has the responsibility to use superhuman efforts to see that no deferment is requested for a man capable of rendering military service unless the job must be done and can be done by no other person."

WASHINGTON—Assistant Secretary of War for Air Robert A. Lovett, in an address before the National Aircraft War Production Council: "You are now producing planes in numbers which seemed fantastic two years ago but the production demands of the future are so great in comparison that it is difficult to picture the immensity of the task."

TOPEKA, Kans.—Former governor Alf M. Landon: "By making a military alliance, however temporary, with the one country, America abandons her traditional impartial role of peacemaker and becomes a partner in the imperialism of Great Britain. Before doing that we have a right to know what Britain's future plans are beyond the fact that she intends to hold her own."

WASHINGTON—Rep. Parnell Thomas (R N.J.): "When (Earl) Browder demands a 'second front' in France regardless of cost by declaring that Russia will not fight Japan, he places a greater value on the lives of Russians than on those of American boys."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:43. Sun rises tomorrow 6:57.

Every day we are warned that the worst of the war is yet to come. Another reason for doing all we can for our fighters at the front.

In the dictator countries the people are ordered to work or not eat. Some no doubt will not work any more than they have to at that.

We often hear the expression, "There is only one danger." And it's often too much.

In America, under our system of free enterprise, everyone has the privilege of being as great as he chooses.

PERT AND PERTINENT
"If man had the ability to jump in proportion to a flea, he would be able to jump nine city blocks."

—It's not the jumping that worries me—it's the landing.
"Many of us long for the good old days" . . . from a recent political harangue.

—And the rest of us long for the appetite and ability to enjoy the blessings we have left.
Did'a few ever know any man to forget to mail a letter that contained a "past due bill"?

—or, one addressed to a rich relative asking for a loan?
"While his wife is away, 38 percent of the husbands forget to feed the cat."

—and 79 percent can be depended upon to feed the kitty.

We know a chap who wants to marry a Victory garden worker so she can work in his garden next summer.

All things are difficult before they are easy.

Wouldn't be supremely happy? Then love thy family more than thyself.

Our idea of a real optimist is the chap who goes around with a pocketful of cigars sticking out where they can be seen.

Name me just one truly great man who got that way while waiting for instructions.

It had been a busy day at the personnel office, and the harassed personnel manager had no more than settled down to read his newspaper before his glowing grate was a young man interrupted his quiet, with the request: "I would like to marry your daughter."

"Oh, yes, well, let's see now," stalled the P.M. absentmindedly, "suppose you just leave your name and address and if nothing better turns up we can notify you."

Writing a letter in longhand is a courtesy. It saves the other person's time, for you aren't so long-winded.

As a rule people do not like to be annoyed by the smoke coming from burning trash. Don't annoy them with it.

We have a hunch that Father Time wears rubber heels—he sneaks up on us so quietly.

Good men must die, but death cannot kill their names.

The crowd was just dispersing from the football stadium and the traffic cop had his hands full keeping traffic flowing smoothly but fast, when he noticed a little old gray-haired lady beckon to him. He held up a dozen cars, three trucks and six cabs to hurry to her side.

"What is it ma'am?"
The little old lady smiled, put her hand on his arm, and said in a soft, sweet voice: "Officer, I just want to tell you that your number is the number of my favorite hymn."

About the only time your rationing is changed you have to take less.

Many thousands of nurses are still needed by the army and navy. The nurses in the services sure are doing a great work.

It is axiomatic that one can live as cheaply as two—if one can call it living.

Cotton seed is being used for fuel in Cairo, Egypt. Be careful of your coal because we don't have any cotton seed here.

One reason why there are so few really great voices in America is because there are few really great ears.

People who have been successful in their own business can most easily be depended upon to be successful in public business.

Good Taste

Dr. E. & E. Patent Office
(B. FRANKLIN MARKEE)

ON BEING OUTFUMBLED
"I have a new neighbor who is continually suggesting that we buy around together but who, although she dresses much better than I do and has a more expensive home and car, always manages to out-fumble me when it comes to paying for incidental expenses. How can I break off without offending her?"

Answer: I know this type only too well. She never has her fare ready when we get into a street car, never can find her change purse when the check comes for our ice cream; then she finds it too late and says, "The next time it'll be on me." Arriving at the movies, she is the last one in line at the ticket box. You can always depend on her to borrow five cents here or ten cents there or a quarter now and then without ever paying it back. You must, hereafter, adopt this formula: "Yes, I can go if it's to be a Dutch treat. I am terribly poor this week." Or you can vary the excuse: "You are buying something, your taxes, your rent or your insurance is due or you have forgotten to go to bank. In all such cases, the rule should be that all purchases for mutual amusement should be "Dutch treat." The fact that you are the one who suggests the movies, refreshments, etc., does not make you responsible for more than half of the expenses unless of course you are known to be opulent and have previously proposed a theater party or a trip to a night club and have definitely announced that the one invited is to be your guest.

Question: We have had a controversy as to whether when a man announces himself over the telephone he should say: "This is Mr. Smith" or "John Smith."

Answer: If he is talking with someone who knows him as "John" naturally he would say: "This is John Smith." But to a casual acquaintance or a business associate with whom he is not on familiar terms, he should call himself "Mr. Smith." Frequently in business offices, a man will announce himself thus: "This is Smith speaking."

On a hotel register, he should write "John Smith" omitting the "Mr." except when he registers with his wife, in which case the signature should be "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith," never "John Smith and wife," which is the very ultimate of bad taste.

CAN YOU TAKE IT?

I know a man who accepted a big job and then resigned in a few days because he found that everything wasn't going the way he wanted it to go.

That's the trouble with a lot of us . . . as long as the sailing is smooth, we think the water is fine, but at the first indication of a storm, we get seasick and want to put back to port.

We want to inhale the fragrance of the flower, but growl like blazes when we find the stem has thorns. We want the honor and the handclapping accorded the hero without the risk of danger.

We want to bark a defiance at the world and then pass the buck to someone else to take the responsibility while we sneak down a convenient alley when we find that the world isn't a bit frightened at our bombastic arrogance.

Sometimes the prize fighter who can stand the most punishment has it all over the one who is a scientific boxer.

"No man lives without jostling and being jostled," says Carlyle. "In all ways, he has to elbow himself thru the world giving and receiving offense."

Why not put a ban on noise, especially at night.

People who have canned their own fruits and vegetables do not have to worry about points.

Money in purse will always be in fashion.

Listen at the keyhole, and you'll hear news of yourself.

You don't need to expect anything easy until after the war is over.

Rationing has its blessings . . . just take the case of Dugald who was riding along the street on a woman's bicycle.

"How come ye to buy that?" asked one of his friends.

"Well, it was like this," said Dugald. "I was walking out with Janet the other evening, and when we came to a darkish part of the park, she said, 'I love ye, Dugald, I love ye so much I'll give ye anything ye like.' So when I thought it over a bit, I asked for her bicycle."

If they take advantage of their country's danger, and use the war as a club to get what they desire, they are not citizens but blackmailers.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDIS

A Federal grand jury sitting in the state of Arkansas, has indicted Joseph Pulitzer, the St. Louis publisher, for a heinous crime which he is charged to have committed.

The crime (and don't show this to your children, it may spoil their morals) is that he is supposed to have violated the interstate commerce laws by illegal interstate shipment of ducks from St. Louis, Ark., hunting grounds last December.

I don't know you, Mr. Pulitzer, but I have heard about you—lots, and all good.

But how could you have degraded yourself so completely as to ship ducks in interstate commerce out of Arkansas?

Murder, burglary, grand larceny, that goes by unpunished every day. But shipping ducks out of Arkansas? Shame on you, Mr. Pulitzer!

May be you only shipped three or four, probably only to a couple of good friends.

But a crime is a crime and must be punished—particularly if it's small enough to be easily denied. Imagine the tremendous injury you have done to the sovereign State of Arkansas (home of the Arkansas traveler), to the United States of America (it's a federal indictment as I've told you) and to mankind in general by shipping those poor, little innocent ducks!

How can we win the war when you ship ducks out of Arkansas? You may have bought a million dollars worth of war bonds. Your paper may have printed a hundred patriotic editorials. You may have some of your closest kin serving in the armed forces?

What does it matter, Mr. Pulitzer? You have shipped ducks out of Arkansas and from now on you will be known not as a great editor or patriot, but as the Arkansas Duck Shipper.

I just read about the great increase of crime in the United States, about an unsolved murder case, about a State Police officer accepting large bribes from truck owners.

But what is all that compared with what you have done? What are a thousand criminals going scot-free to those ducks of yours? And, by the way, I wish you had shipped a few of them to me.

HE HAS IT NOW
Allied reports from London recently said that Hitler is massing eight million men along the continental coastline of Western Europe, in anticipation of an invasion. If that doesn't constitute a "second front" capable of relieving German pressure on the Russian lines, then Mr. Stalin would be hard to please, indeed.

There are some curious angles to this sudden revelation of enormous German manpower. If the figures are correct, then it is reasonable to assume that Hitler has scraped the bottom of the manpower barrel of all Europe and is gambling everything he has on one last defensive stand. There is no indication that he has the slightest intention of taking the offensive anywhere.

Many of these troops are, of course from satellite nations such as Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria and perhaps a few from Italy, although the latter have a pretty fair task ahead of them within their own borders.

Effectiveness of such troops is open to question, even granting that they will be sandwiched between German divisions. But they are neither trained to the fine edge of the Nazi elite divisions, nor do they have much enthusiasm to die for a German Führer, whose leadership many of them already are beginning to question.

Certainly the Germans have left large forces along the thousand mile front in Russia. Although in a more or less steady retreat along the vital points of that line, they still are putting up considerable resistance and the Russian advance is at no breakneck pace. Hitler's strength on the Russian line frequently has been estimated as being about five million. Unless that strength has been seriously depleted by withdrawals or by casualties, it is safe to name Junior for a great man who is dead. He is the only one who can't make you regret it.

Another reason for joining the WACS is that you can't get those perfectly darling G.I. bags any other way.

The special speaker at the farewell service will be Miss Ruth Bender, a missionary worker, who has served quite some time in Africa and the guest soloist will be Mary Virginia Roberts.

Rally Month For Epworth Church

Epworth Methodist church is observing the month of October as rally month with special services and features marking every Sunday. The first Sunday will be rally day for the church school and the observance of World-wide Communion will highlight the morning service.

For the succeeding Sunday of the month, special days have been assigned to the men, women and youth of the church and the final day will be guest Sunday when an effort will be made to bring the month to a high climax. Much interest is being manifested in this program and the organizations of the church are co-operating in carrying out the general plans.

MINISTERS TO MEET MONDAY

Members of the New Castle Ministerial Association will have their first meeting of the fall season Monday morning, October 4, at 10 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church corner of North Jefferson and Falls streets.

The annual election of officers will take place. There will be an open discussion on the subject, "What Shall Our Program Be?"

There was a time when every shipyard had its ropewalk where all work was done manually, rope making being one of our earliest industries. It is still an important phase of the allied marine industry field, but modern ropes are made by design and involved machines designed for that express purpose.

Churches Will Observe Communion

A large number of the Protestant churches throughout the nation and the world will observe World Wide Communion Sunday tomorrow, October 3. Christians of all races and nations will gather in their own places and in their own way for the observance of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

The objective is to demonstrate and symbolize the unbroken fellowship Christians are maintaining around the world during these years of strife and war. A secondary objective is that each congregation will endeavor to have all of its resident members present for their own communion service.

A large number of the local congregations have joined in this observance of World Wide Communion and unusual attendances are expected for this Sunday's observance.

NORTH SIDE CHURCH

TO HAVE RALLY DAY

Rally day will be observed Sunday at the North Side Community church. Rev. Earl Collins will speak on the subject, "The Mission of the Church Bible School."

This Church School was winner of fourth division in the pre-Easter attendance contest and has had a steady attendance record throughout the summer.

At the evening service, J. Miles Cottrell, the pastor, will speak on, "How Will Peace Come to the Earth?"

FALL COMMUNION AT ST. PAUL'S SUNDAY

Fall communion will be observed in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, North Jefferson and Grant streets. Rev. A. M. Stump, D. D., pastor, at the Sunday morning service, a continuation of the emphasis on Family Festival church wide observance last Sunday and communion as a family this Sunday. October 3 is set aside as world-wide communion Sunday.

Calendar makers passed from 1 B. C. to 1 A. D., disregarding the Zero year, so that there are only 1942 years since 1 B. C. rather than 1943.

German City Of Hagen Bombed

First Attack On City In Westphalia Is Reported From London

By LEO V. DOLAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Heavy-scale Allied bombings of enemy objectives in Germany and German-occupied territory by planes flying from British bases were resumed today.

Giant American Flying Fortresses, covered by lightning-fast Thunderbolt fighters, again smashed at port installations at the Nazi shipbuilding and submarine center of Emden at the mouth of the Ems river.

A steady procession of Allied fighters crossed the channel this afternoon in the direction of Calais on the French coast opposite the white cliffs of Dover.

Last night the Royal Air Force carried out a heavy attack on the German industrial city of Hagen in Westphalia.

Hagen is one of the few large towns in the Ruhr not previously attacked by the RAF.

The air ministry described the raid on Hagen as a "concentrated" one that took place in 20 minutes, between 11 p. m. and 11:20.

Returning crews reported that fires spread rapidly throughout the target area. Four huge explosions were heard and then a fifth one, accompanied by a blue flash, was observed. It was believed that a direct hit may have been scored on a power station, since all searchlights went out suddenly.

Science has not yet discovered why some people are naturally immune to colds while others are so susceptible.

Seeking To Solve Manpower Problem

Aircraft War Production Council Advances Three-Point Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—A three-point program for solving the critical manpower shortage was advanced today by the aircraft war production council.

Concluding a two-day session in Washington, the council, consisting of 15 leading aircraft company presidents, opposed national service legislation until all other efforts at solving the manpower problem have failed.

The following program was recommended to combat the manpower shortage which the council said represented the principal obstacle to next year's goal of forty billion dollars in aircraft and equipment:

1. Certificates of availability, through which an effort now is made to control turnover in critical labor shortage areas, should be implemented and strengthened by immediate executive or legislative action, to require compliance by both employers and employees.

2. Continuous draft deferment, for periods of no less than six months, for necessary personnel in aircraft production so long as military and government authorities decree that the aircraft production program heads the list of essential war weapons.

3. Return to the aircraft industry, by a screening process, essential workers whose skill and training can contribute more to the war effort on the production front than in the armed services.

State Socialism Threatens Nation
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin held today that only an aroused public can prevent "a small but powerful group" in the government from succeeding in substituting state socialism for free enterprise in America.

Speaking before the District of Columbia Medical Scientific Assembly, Martin declared that Congress must not permit "bureaucratic lust for power and possessing no direct responsibility to the people to overstep their constitutional authority, and through administrative regulations and directives write the laws of this land."

Martin said that the group plotting to destroy free enterprise "is represented in every department of our government."

A billion and a half glass jars containing commercial food products will be suitable for reuse in home canning this year.

RETURN TO WORK
DETROIT, Oct. 2.—(INS)—More than 1,000 non-operating employees of the Michigan Central railroad voted to return to work today, following a 24-hour strike for an eight-cent-an-hour raise.

Their action prevented a general strike affecting war material shipments. The workers also approved a resolution recommending that telegrams be sent to President Roosevelt, Fred M. Vinson of the economic stabilization bureau and the American Federation of Labor.

Haiphong Area Reported Bombed
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The Japanese Domei agency today reported that 18 American B-24 Liberator bombers, operating from Chinese bases with an escort of "more than" 20 fighter planes, bombed the Haiphong area of French Indo-China late yesterday.

The Domei dispatch, heard by FCC, claimed four fighters were shot down and three bombers damaged.

TWENTY-EIGHT ARE REPORTED MISSING AS STEAMER SINKS
RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 2.—(INS)—Nine passengers and 19 crew members were listed as missing today after an unnamed Brazilian coastal steamer was torpedoed and sunk off the northern Brazilian coast.

Survivors, many of whom were wounded when rescued, said the attacking submarine surfaced and machine-gunned lifeboats.

The vessel was identified as the S. S. Itapage, which carried 35 passengers and 33 crew members.

U. S. OFFICER IS FOUND GUILTY
SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich., Oct. 2.—(INS)—A court-martial jury today found warrant officer Fred Lalone guilty on seven of eight counts charging fraudulent transfers and graft.

At the same time, Lalone, fourth Selfridge field officer to be court-martialed, was ordered dismissed from the army.

The verdict was reached yesterday by the jury of five majors and two lieutenant-colonels, but announcement was postponed until today.

On the stand yesterday, Lalone denied the charges against him, particularly those accusing him of accepting money for arranging enlistments and transfers of inductees.

COUNT PROROK THRILLS GROUP

Noted French Archaeologist Tells Of Explorations And Fighting Free French

County Byron De Prorok, an associate of many famous and legendary figures in North Africa, from Egypt to the West Coast, delighted members of the New Castle Executive Club and their wives, at their opening dinner meeting of the fall season in The Castlelton, Friday evening.

Count De Prorok showed an interesting film taken by him on his various explorations in North Africa, during which some discoveries of great importance were made, and which also showed the feats of the Fighting Free French under General DeGaulle, in hacking their way 3,000 miles across jungle and desert to join with the British and Americans in defeating the Nazis and Italians in North Africa.

Knows Maj. Hamilton
Count De Prorok is well acquainted with Major Edgar Hamilton, of this city, who has served a quarter of a century in the French Foreign Legion, and stated that Major Hamilton is a legend among the French in North Africa.

He visited Major Hamilton's mother while here.

Dr. E. F. Henderson presided and presented Dudley Arnold, who introduced the speaker.

The Count stated that he had become interested in archaeology as a boy of 12 while studying in England, and later became particularly interested in the Queen of Sheba, determining to make the study of her life and habitat his work.

He was on the verge of discoveries of extreme importance when the present war broke out, and expects to return to them. He was searching for the lost gold mines of the Queen of Sheba in particular.

Election Directors
Election of directors took place during the course of the dinner, R. Boyd, T. L. Paden, and A. M. Shumaker being named for a three year period. The directors will meet prior to the next gathering on November 9, to select the president for the coming year. The next speaker was announced by Dr. Henderson as Dr. Chandra Sekhar, an Indian.

Count Prorok answered many questions of his audience about the difference between De Gaulle and Giraud, which he stated were largely political, De Gaulle standing for the Republic, while Giraud is a Royalist and seeks the return of the monarchy. Darlan, he stated, was assassinated by a young Royalist, because he was unable to keep his promise to back the Royalists after escaping to North Africa.

Report Huge Jap Sub Sent Down
LONDON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—A Wellington official was quoted today by Reuters as declaring the big Japanese sub which bombed oil fields near Santa Barbara, Calif., shortly after Pearl Harbor had been sunk by a New Zealand corvette.

The corvette Tui, "in conjunction with an Allied airplane," sank the huge undersea craft which reportedly displaced 2,563 tons and carried a crew of 97 men, the dispatch said.

The official was quoted as saying that six of the Jap crew were saved. The location of the reported sinking was not disclosed.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

—nor as far as its authors would like to have gone. The generals still worry. Political considerations connected with the fourth-term campaign interfere with the kind of full-strength action on the manpower issue that should be taken.

THERE WAS no use recommending things that could not be done—no use, for example, in urging the substitution of a really competent manpower commission for the politician who now holds the job—no use insisting upon the abolition of certain union-labor practices and the relaxation of certain labor-law provisions that prevent industry from functioning at full capacity.

In these matters one has to face realities, and do what one can. A good deal has been done but not enough—not all that could have been done. And the worries of the generals about planes are not all ended by the Baruch report although it has started production up again and averted what seemed a real danger.

BUT, IT has not insured—and could not insure—continuity of unbroken high-speed effort, which is what is needed to win the war before all the belligerents are bled white. A short time ago there was a slowdown in one plant—not a plant where planes are made but one which makes a small and indispensable plane part. There are only two plants making this particular part, and when one of them slowed down, every plane plant in the country had to slow down. So far as the army could discover the slowdown was due to no particular reason except that the man did not feel like working, but it cost the army 300 planes in one month. This is not an isolated instance. It comes pretty close to being typical. It is the sort of thing, with the strikes which continue and persist, that demonstrates the fraudulent nature of the pious no-strike pledge to which the unctuous CIO leader, Mr. Murray, and the pompous AFL leader, Mr. Green, so constantly refer. The Baruch report did not—and could not—touch this condition. Yet, it is one that has persisted despite all pledges, promises and pleas. Neither disclaimers of responsibility for these stoppages by the Messrs. Green and Murray nor calling them wildcat strikes alter the facts.

NOR DOES the Baruch report alter them. The reason is, first, because the political alliance between the professional labor leaders and the President has prevented affirmative and effective action upon the part of the executive; second, because Congress, against President opposition, has been unable to enact really effective legislation. So complex and complicated is the modern military plane, and so numerous and varied the parts which go into it, that a strike almost anywhere in any kind of plant affects general plane production. Who can tell what the cost in lives of American soldiers the loss of those 300 planes means? Who can estimate how long the war has been prolonged by the thousand or so interruptions of work since Pearl Harbor? Who can calculate the additional length of the casualty list for which they will be responsible?

ties, it would mean that Germany now has an armed strength of something around thirteen million of men in Europe.

If the reports of casualties on the Russian front for the last twenty-six months are anywhere near accurate, the foregoing figures would indicate that much of Germany's reported strength today is composed of comparatively untrained youths and men beyond the ordinary age for effective military service. How much is anybody's guess? But it is only reasonable to assume that Germany, in a frantic desperate attempt to knock Russia out of the war in the first year and a half when there was no serious threat of an Allied invasion sent most of its best trained troops into the field against the Soviet.

So while it is possible that Germany has been able to mobilize a military strength of eight million along the western European coastline, it must be remembered that mere manpower is not sufficient in modern warfare. Trained machines and their equipment are essential and these have been sacrificed by the thousands in Germany's supreme effort to destroy Russia.

There has been evidence for some time of a shortage of either German pilots or planes, perhaps both. The Luftwaffe no longer terrorizes Germany's enemies as it did two years ago.

While these reports indicate a large army, they also indicate that it has a large percentage of ineffective. They also indicate that the production front must be suffering, too, because the army takes the cream of manpower. Production lines manned by captive slave labor shanghaied from other countries (the aged and the physically unfit left in Germany cannot supply thirteen millions men in the field. This is particularly true when the factories are under continual aerial attack and many of them daily are being knocked out of existence by the large Allied raids designed for that purpose.

Heavy fighting lies ahead for the Allies. But the odds against an Allied victory are by means as strong as they would appear from a mere consideration of numbers. Germany was the strongest military nation in the world at the outbreak of the war, but even such strength cannot fail to suffer terribly in four years of battle, two of which have been devoted to the hopeless task of trying to destroy Russia, a nation with almost unlimited manpower. The invasion of Russia has been likened to burrowing into a featherbed. It is comparatively easy to advance but sometimes suffocating, once one arrives. Greater generals than the intuitive Hitler have discovered that.

If Hitler is neglecting the Russian front to the degree of throwing his best troops along the western coastline, then Stalin has his second front already. And if it is on a scale of eight million Germans what is holding the Soviet armies?

ELIZABETH BITTLES DIES IN WATERFORD

Mrs. E. C. Porter of North Mercer street has received word of the death of Miss Elizabeth Bittles, who died at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. E. Bittles, Waterford, Pa.

Miss Bittles, a graduate of Edinboro State Teachers college, was a sister of the late Dr. E. E. Bittles, former New Castle resident. Funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon in Waterford.

Army-Navy Game Will Be Played At West Point

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The White House announced today that the annual Army-Navy football game will be held at West Point on Saturday, Nov. 27.

Tickets will be restricted, the White House stated, to bonafide residents of an area within a radius of ten miles from the military academy, and to personnel on duty at the academy.

The game will be held in Michie stadium and an attendance of about 15,000 is anticipated. The stadium seats 30,000 persons.

The White House stated that every precaution will be taken to prevent unauthorized persons from obtaining tickets for the game.

It was pointed out that these restrictions are the same as were applied last year when the Army-Navy game was played at the naval academy at Annapolis, and that the restriction is a wartime measure.

Residents' Grandson Aids Daring Attack

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richey of 205 North Walnut street and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoyland of Edison avenue received word that their grandson Sgt. Arthur (Bud) Richey of Steubenville, O., now stationed somewhere in the South Pacific helped to wipe out a nest of 12 Japanese; together with six other American soldiers.

Sgt. Richey manned an automatic rifle, and proved his skill at the time of the attack. He is a former pressroom employee of the Steubenville Herald-Star and the son of the press foreman of the newspaper. The group of seven Americans nonchalantly ate the meal prepared by the enemy, after wiping out the foes.

Sgt. Richey is also the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. William Black of 562 Florence avenue, and visited here often, being well-known in this city.

ties, it would mean that Germany now has an armed strength of something around thirteen million of men in Europe.

If the reports of casualties on the Russian front for the last twenty-six months are anywhere near accurate, the foregoing figures would indicate that much of Germany's reported strength today is composed of comparatively untrained youths and men beyond the ordinary age for effective military service. How much is anybody's guess? But it is only reasonable to assume that Germany, in a frantic desperate attempt to knock Russia out of the war in the first year and a half when there was no serious threat of an Allied invasion sent most of its best trained troops into the field against the Soviet.

So while it is possible that Germany has been able to mobilize a military strength of eight million along the western European coastline, it must be remembered that mere manpower is not sufficient in modern warfare. Trained machines and their equipment are essential and these have been sacrificed by the thousands in Germany's supreme effort to destroy Russia.

There has been evidence for some time of a shortage of either German pilots or planes, perhaps both. The Luftwaffe no longer terrorizes Germany's enemies as it did two years ago.

While these reports indicate a large army, they also indicate that it has a large percentage of ineffective. They also indicate that the production front must be suffering, too, because the army takes the cream of manpower. Production lines manned by captive slave labor shanghaied from other countries (the aged and the physically unfit left in Germany cannot supply thirteen millions men in the field. This is particularly true when the factories are under continual aerial attack and many of them daily are being knocked out of existence by the large Allied raids designed for that purpose.

Heavy fighting lies ahead for the Allies. But the odds against an Allied victory are by means as strong as they would appear from a mere consideration of numbers. Germany was the strongest military nation in the world at the outbreak of the war, but even such strength cannot fail to suffer terribly in four years of battle, two of which have been devoted to the hopeless task of trying to destroy Russia, a nation with almost unlimited manpower. The invasion of Russia has been likened to burrowing into a featherbed. It is comparatively easy to advance but sometimes suffocating, once one arrives. Greater generals than the intuitive Hitler have discovered that.

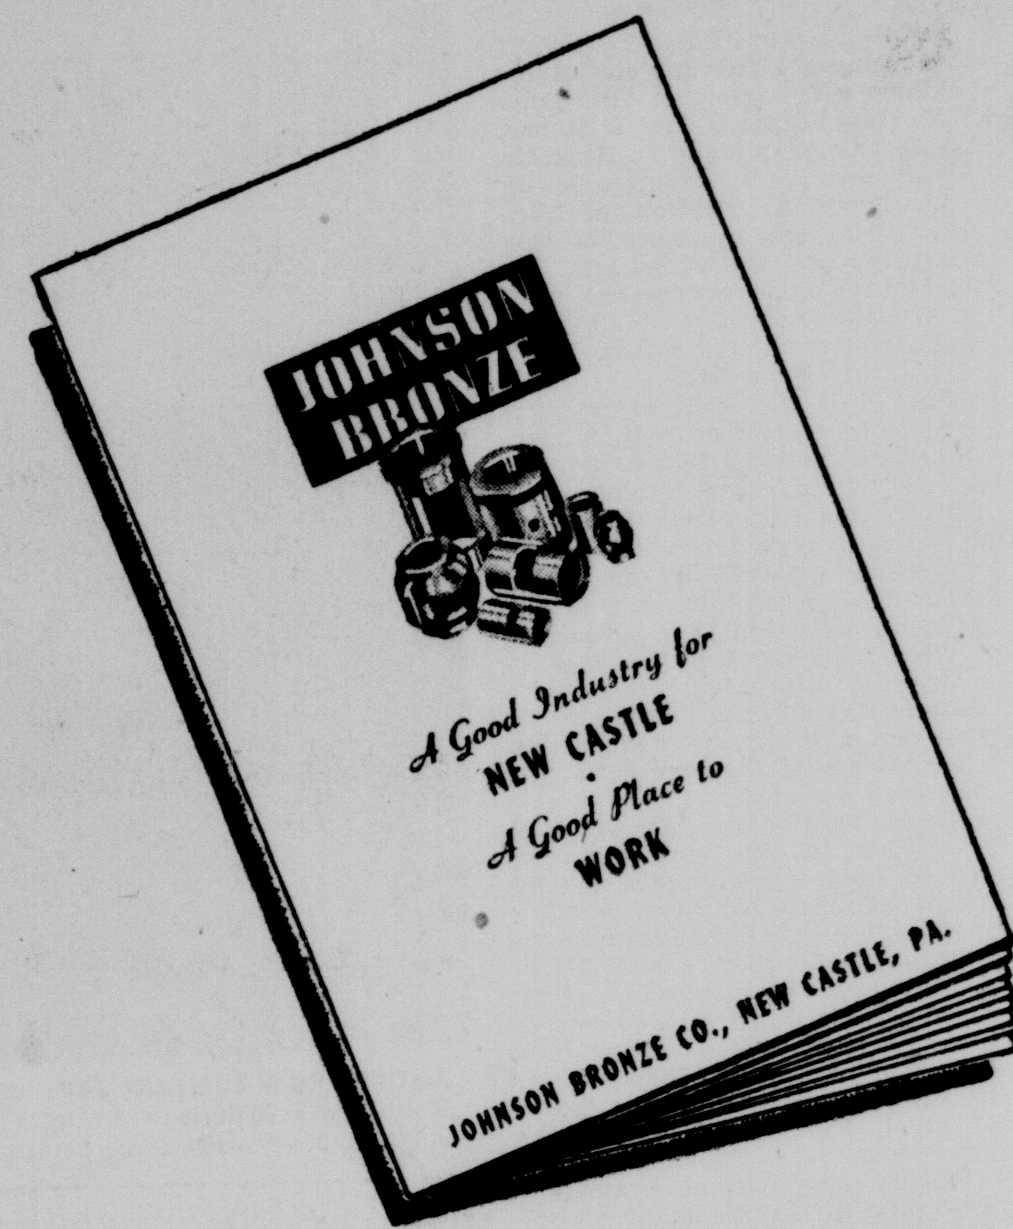

If Hitler is neglecting the Russian front to the degree of throwing his best troops along the western coastline, then Stalin has his second front already. And if it is on a scale of eight million Germans what is holding the Soviet armies?

A Book Worth Reading

During the past twelve months we have, in the columns of this paper, taken the citizens of New Castle through the Johnson Bronze Company. We have described the various departments, the type of work performed in each one, and the interdependency of one department to another. We referred to these stories as "Little Journeys Through Johnson Bronze."

Now, in response to popular demand, we have reprinted this entire series. In a small and attractive book we take you on the complete trip . . . from basic metal to finished product. Then we added a short history of our company, how we have grown from a small foundry to one of the world's largest producers of sleeve bearings . . . how we intend to continue to grow and progress.

We believe this book will be interesting reading for the citizens of our community. If you would like a copy—simply address your request to the Advertising Department of Johnson Bronze. Naturally there is no obligation.

UNCLE SAM KNEW WHERE TO GO FOR MOTOR TRANSPORT MEN

Moving troops and equipment by motor transport calls for the highest degree of traffic skill. When Uncle Sam wanted motor traffic experts he knew where to lay his hand on them—and he did. From the trucking companies all over the nation came executives, traffic managers, rate experts, maintenance and operations men, to serve the armed forces.

Again, when he needed men for the Office of Defense Transportation, he reached into the motor truck industry for its best men. Lawrence county chapter is proud of the fact that two of its members are serving their government in the O.D.T., Harry L. Gormley in charge of the Chicago office, and Paul W. Keely in charge of the Pittsburgh office.

Every motor truck man in service is coming back to civilian life even better equipped to give you service. The lessons of high speed action in war will be converted to peace time transportation.

NOT TOO LATE Did you buy that bond yet? It isn't too late to be numbered among the real Americans who are backing the attack.

U. S. Supplies Reach India

Military Equipment And Supplies Arrive In Staggering Quantities

By JAMES E. BROWN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SOMEWHERE IN INDIA, Oct. 2.—American military equipment and supplies today are reaching India in staggering quantities which Axis submarines have failed even momentarily to check.
I have just completed a 15,000-mile voyage from the United States on a liberty ship carrying a cargo of war material worth millions of dollars. We encountered no enemy action of any kind and the only other ships we sighted during the entire trip were more of Henry J. Kaiser's liberty models.
This is not an unusual experience—it is happening every day and it is why the new southeast Asia commander, Lord Louis Mountbatten will shortly be able to hit the Japanese hard.
We are losing some ships—I have recently talked with British and American seamen who have been torpedoed—but the percentage is remarkably low.
I am not allowed to reveal the route by which we traveled to India and, in any case, there are many different routes being used every day.

Fellow passengers on the Liberty ship included Victor Jurgens, March of Time cameraman, of Greenville, S. C.; two Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. technicians; Clyde F. Hedderly, Akron, and A. D. Kallgren, Akron.
Lt. Bruce A. MacDonald, Clearwater, Fla., was in charge of both the cargo and the passengers. The food on the ship was excellent, plenty of steak and meat of all kinds, eggs, fresh fruit and salads.

Boat Drill
Boat drill was held every three days in accordance with U. S. maritime laws, and the first excitement of the trip was the receipt of an SOS from a ship about three days ahead of us on our course saying it was being attacked by an enemy submarine. From then on crew and passengers slept in their clothes.
We passed through the area in which the attack had taken place without incident and learned at the first port at which we stopped that all survivors of the torpedoed ship had been rescued.
There were many Liberty ships at anchor in this port when we arrived. Local residents said that for over a year there had never been less than half a dozen American cargo ships in the harbor.
The successful manner in which naval secrecy was maintained was illustrated by the fact that this busy port was one which I had never heard of before, and the name of which I have never seen in a news story.
Despite the normal grumbling, most men in the merchant marine admit the Liberty ships have done and are doing a great job. They have delivered the goods when they were needed. The tremendous task of supplying United Nations' military forces in India and China has been successfully handled, and the job is daily increasing.

FEAR CHILD MAY BE LOCKED IN CAR

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 2.—(INS)—Detectives today expressed the fear that nine-year-old Helen Washkewicz, who disappeared from her Camden home last Thursday, may have climbed into a box car and been carried hundreds of miles away.
Authorities pointed out that the child's home is only a block from the Pennsylvania railroad's Camden freight yard. Meanwhile, hundreds of Boy Scouts joined police in a neighborhood search for her.

Nearly 20,000 tons of tobacco was gathered in Mexico last season.

Harrowing Story Of Kidnaping Is Told To Police

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The harrowing story of a 300-mile trip while bound and stuffed into the trunk of an automobile was told today by Charles T. Monroe, 31, of Western Springs, Ill., victim of a kidnaping.

Monroe told his story from the hospital where he was taken for treatment of severe head and face bruises.
His alleged kidnaper, Charles T. Lievers, 18, a former resident of Evansville, Ind., and admittedly AWOL from the Canadian army, was in custody of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.
Lievers was caught five minutes after he released Monroe on a downtown Cincinnati street Friday.
Monroe said he was enroute from his home near Dwight, Ill., to Chicago when he gave the soldier "a lift." Shortly afterwards, he said, the soldier drew a gun and ordered him from the car.
He tied the driver's hands and feet, looping the rope from his feet around his neck and then placed him in the car's trunk.
Somewhere in Indiana, Monroe related, the kidnaper dragged him into a cornfield and beat him, then pushed him back into the car. Friday morning the kidnaper brought a hamburger and soft drink for Monroe, and permitted him to ride inside the car.
After their arrival in Cincinnati the soldier released Monroe. The latter borrowed a dime from a taxi driver and called police.

FRENCH PEOPLE IN STARVING CONDITION

(International News Service)
LONDON—American troops who land in France will find a pillaged and starved population waiting for liberation. The Americans will have to take with them all of the necessities for their own sustenance and in addition supplies for starving men, women and children. Such was the view today of B. S. Townroe, director of censorship at the British ministry of information during the first 14 months of the war. Townroe advanced his view during a speech in behalf of the United Associations of Great Britain and France to the senior officers of an American division. Two million German soldiers, who represented at one time more than 10 per cent of the total population of occupied France, have systematically looted the French of virtually everything they possessed, said Townroe. In order to provide comforts for their troops, the German high command organized house to house "inspections," pretending to be looking for deserters and hidden arms. Actually, however, they made detailed reports on furniture, linen, glass and crockery. Later a demand was made on each household to hand over two sheets, two pillows and as many blankets as possible. Failures to produce were followed by foraging parties who took virtually everything that wasn't nailed down.

THE BLACK WATCH

(International News Service)
CAMP GORDON JOHNSTON, Fla.—Halloween defies traditions down at a certain deserted section of Camp Gordon Johnston by coming every night instead of once a year. Every night, at exactly 12 o'clock midnight, a black cat appears and for one hour—never more, never less—silently follows the guard on his solitary round. At 1 o'clock exactly the cat vanishes until the next night at 12 o'clock. At least, this is the story the guards tell.

Cousin Of Hess Taken By F.B.I.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(INS)—A middle-aged New York woman who turned out to be a second cousin of Rudolph Hess, once Hitler's right hand man, has been taken into custody by the FBI, it was disclosed today.
Withholding her name, E. E. Conroy, special FBI agent, said she is the daughter of a former colonel in the German army and has a brother who is now a Nazi officer.
Conroy said she was one of 42 German aliens seized last month. Her husband also was arrested after he had declared he would not fight against Germany even if the United States was invaded. The cousin of Hess was described as having been "loud in praise of the Nazis".

'Indestructible Mike' Now Dead

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(INS)—"Indestructible Mike" is dead!
The man who was shot by a firing squad and lived to tell about it is no more. Of this his wife was convinced today, following receipt of a telegram from the War Department. Details of his death were not disclosed.
Private Mike Scambelluri, a paratrooper, gained undying fame by being captured. He was taken prisoner by Italians in Sicily after he was dropped from a troop-carrying plane behind the enemy lines. He was brought before an Italian captain immediately and questioned. But Mike wouldn't talk!
Infuriated, the Italian officer ordered Scambelluri to face a firing squad.
The American soldier was brought into a courtyard and placed against a wall. A crisp order and rifles aimed from a distance of less than 2 feet cracked.
Seven bullets lodged in Mike's body as he crumpled to the pavement and he was left for dead. But his heart was more powerful than his injuries. When he was alone he pulled himself to his feet and, miraculous as it may seem, stumbled miles to American lines.
But today Mrs. Marjorie Scambelluri, the girl he married just before he was inducted into the Army on March 9, 1942, held a telegram informing her tersely that Mike, the indestructible, is dead.

New Castle's Fourth Period Rally Tops Sharon, 12-6

Bessemer Routs Lowellville, 31-7; Gatto, Miller Star

Williams' 69-Yard Run Wins Game; McKee Ties Score

Locals Pile Up Five Touchdowns Against Arch Rivals On Friday

Discarding an up on the air game, Bessemer's stout eleven rumbled over neighboring Lowellville high, 31-7, Friday afternoon at Bessemer.

The first of five touchdowns was marked on the board in the first when the Cementers capitalized on a poor punt which gave them possession on the Lowellville 40. Gatto and Miller plunged through the line, behind gaping holes, carried to the 1 foot mark. Gatto went over.

Gatto Over Again
A sustained 50 yard steady push netted the second "touch." Gatto bucking over from the 7 stripe in the second, Gatto annexed the only extra point of the day for his side, punching through the wall. In the third canto, Bessemer advanced to the Ohiolans' 35. From this point, Miller passed to Johnson who lateraled to Commisso, a substitute, for the locals' third score. The Bessemerites gained the ball by intercepting a pass.

Lowellville denied the scoreboard at the start of the fourth when J. Finamore uncorked one of the feature plays, dashing 60 yards for the lone Lowellville six pointer. Derenzo plunged over for the seventh point.

Displaying more power and speed as the clash moved into the closing stages, Bessemer annexed two more touchdowns. Miller completing a sustained 60-yard push. He and Gatto divided the lugger during the advance. After intercepting a pass, which placed the oval on the Lowellville 30, Miller cut through tackle and down field for the Cementers' final score.

Gatto-Miller Aces
Rocco Gatto and W. Miller were Bessemer's offensive stars by far, ripping off substantial gains repeatedly. The line was unusually effective.

Derenzo and J. Finamore starred for the losers. Bessemer starts its county Class B title chase next Friday, entertaining Union. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

STEAGLES BATTLE DODGERS TONIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—(INS)—The Philadelphia Eagles-Steelers will open their 1943 pro grid campaign tonight in their meeting with the Brooklyn Dodgers under the Shibe Park arc lights.

The Steagles, coached by Greasy Neal and Walt Kiesling are rated strong contenders for honors in the eastern division this year and will be favored over the Dodgers who opened their season last week with a 27-0 loss to Detroit.

The Quaker City-Pittsburgh combine, victims of a 20-7 lashing by the Chicago Bears, and a 28-10 defeat by the Green Bay Packers in exhibition encounters, will depend on a strong line and capable backfield together with a fancy passing attack in their try for an initial triumph in league competition.

Shenango Ties Hopewell, 6-6, Here On Friday

Locals Score In First Period On Remarkable 93-Yard Unbroken March

For the second consecutive year, Shenango and Hopewell high battled to a 6-6 deadlock. This season's clash, loaded with thrills, was played on Shenango field Friday afternoon.

The local Wildcats, a decided underdog, dominated play throughout the first half, especially in the first period when Mervis pushed the Nash-coached outfit on their own 7 by lifting a perfect boot.

Push 93 Yards
From this point, however, the Shenango counted six first downs to the Hopewell two. Kitzko blasted over for the score. Kala-jainen's conversion try was too low. In the 93-yard march Tanner, Kala-jainen and Kitzko tore off sizeable yardage, with Kala-jainen emerging as the most consistent gainer.

The visitors annexed their touchdown at the start of the third, receiving the kickoff on their 30 and driving 70 yards into fertile soil. With the ball on the Shenango 1, the Wildcats held for three downs. On the fourth try the Hopewells finally pierced the goal line, Mervis passing to Kozlinski. Dobals' kick for the extra point failed.

ton was a star-studded performer. Sanfilippo and Joseph were standouts, too.

Leipheimer Flashy
Bobby Leipheimer, the visiting back, was one of the most talented athletes on the field. He did everything required of a star, pass, kick, and run. His passing was strictly of the Bertelli type but was robbed of its finesse by Bob Lengyel and Denny Newman, the rushing NC ends. Whitworth, Koss and Davis were other Sharon aces.

Next Friday, New Castle seeks its fourth triumph when the Canes entertain Farrell.

Reynolds has won 10 games for the Indians. (International)

SPORTS RAMBLINGS

Tossing a lot of bits together in a hurry....

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh is a grand guy in the eyes of Youngstown East students and faculty members. After the 6-0 set to "Bridy" handed the Ohiolans the ball, "Bridy" handed the Ohiolans the ball. The Phillips have doubled their attendance. The Cox (whatever happened to him by the way?) crew lured 466,676 this season compared to a paltry 230,000 in '42....

Why wasn't Joe McCarthy named to manage the American league overseas team? He offered to take over the job. The Yankee manager, according to Manhattan pencil pushers, didn't even get a form to fill out. Originally, the players were supposed to be nominated by a vote of eight managers.... World Series tickets are so scarce that the Dodgers were unable to secure enough to pass along to their employees....

Would you like to be a leading jockey? You'll have to vie in about 1,200 races a year. Ted Atkinson rode that many in 1942. "Bill" Johnson, the Yankee star third sacker, played with Butler back in 1937. The Phillips have doubled their attendance. The Cox (whatever happened to him by the way?) crew lured 466,676 this season compared to a paltry 230,000 in '42....

Scribes from Philly and New York are having a merry battle trying to swing the Army-Navy classic their way—via the sport pages. This is one time that Gotham, which gets everything "big," should sit back.... Bob Mulligan, Duke's civilian back, doesn't fool around with small gains. So far, he's averaging 29.6 yard per try!....

Showing no concern whatsoever for the gas shortage, Heavyweight Gus Dorazio has opened his own station in Philly. This is one way to trip ticks.... "Red" Pearce, Meadville high's coach recently accused "Hank" Day of failing to substitute liberally. The blast was the result of Farrell's 35-0 shellacking. In other words, Pearce favors that "hold back the punches" theory. That's the kind of stuff that spoiled wrestling, only to mention one game....

Temple Rally Nips Swarthmore, 13-6

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—(INS)—Temple university's fledgling Owls today had rallied in the second half of their encounter with the Swarthmore Garnets to score a 13-6 upset before 5,000 fans under the Temple stadium arc lights.

Swarthmore took an early lead as Jodie Crabtree raced 68 yards two minutes after the starting whistle to give the Garnets a 6-0 lead. The Templars slumbered until the third period, when Tony Hubka followed up the Owls' 51-yard advance with a plunge into the end zone from the four-yard stripe. Jim Wilson converted to give Temple a 7-6 advantage.

Freshman Sid Roche bucked the line in the final period for Temple's second touchdown.

MANUEL ORTIZ DEFEATS LOPEZ

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—(INS)—Manuel Ortiz, wore his world's bantamweight crown more securely than ever today after lacing Leonardo Lopez to the canvas in the fourth round of their scheduled 15-round title fight at the Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Ortiz treated the capacity, $18,000-crowd to an exhibition of precision punching before the Mexico City challenger collapsed under a smashing right cross to his midriff.

Y. Gym Season Opens Monday

Monday brings the 1943-44 gym season into being at the Y.M.C.A., the business men's class of the association swinging into action in their spirited volleyball games.

Tuesday finds the seniors and the young men holding their first calisthenic drill. Staff members are looking forward to fine attendance in all classes. First boys' classes will be held Saturday, October 9.

At the present, boys are being interviewed and placed in their prospective classes by William Winter, physical director. All boys who have not yet been examined are asked to report at their regularly scheduled classes during the week and be placed in their classes for the season.

Evans City Eleven Trips Union High By 40 To 6 Margin

Union Township high's inexperienced gridlers were unable to cope with Evans City's resourcefulness and were forced to accept a 40-6 defeat Friday afternoon on Union Township field.

The visitors took the kickoff and advanced to the 10. Carey crossing the "E. L." Luntz added the extra point by booting between the pipes.

Half Score 20-0

After an exchange of punts in the second, Evans City drove to the 10, English dashing over through center. In the same period, EC recovered a Union fumble on the local 15. English scampered across two plays later, boosting the lead, 20-0. Unable to count sizeable gains through the line, Union was forced to kick in the third. Bigley lifting to kick on the EC 30. On a reverse, Mickley wheeled back, passed to Carey on the U 25. Carey lateraled to Spangler for another score. Mickley later tallied on a 50-yard dash.

Micko Goes Over

In the fourth, following an exchange of punts, Union started their touchdown advance. Substitute Brown, Micko and Dell divided ball carrying chores and reeled off three first downs to the two. Micko plunged across.

Boda, a freshman, was Union's punting man unusually good. Bigley's punting was unusually good.

Mickley, B. English, Purvis and Luntz featured for the winners. Union plays its first Lawrence county class B game next Friday afternoon, traveling to Bessemer.

Gordon-Cooper '42 Series Goats Seek Revenge

Unbearable Psychological Handicap Chases Cooper; Gordon Enjoying Belated Batting Spree

BROOKLYN TRIPS CINCY REDS. 2-1

By JOHN CASHMAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—There are a couple of 1942 goats hanging around today who are snorting and pawing the ground in their anxiety to get into the world series and butt the enemy into unconsciousness. They are, of course, Pitcher Morton Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals and Second Baseman Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees. Both came out of the series adorned with horns and a little heard last year; Cooper after being slammed around like an amateur and Gordon after dropping off at second base at a crucial moment of the last game.

How much chance have these boys of "redeeming" themselves in the world series record books? The answer is that they have every chance in the world, but Gordon's possibilities to vindicate himself stack up much better than those of Cooper.

Cooper Handicapped
Cooper is now working under an almost unbearable psychological handicap. While practically all of us are saying that Spud Chandler, the Yankees' starting pitcher, is certain to hold the Cards in check, the judgment on Cooper, the Cards' starting twirler, is exactly the reverse. Ninety-nine per cent of the press box prophets can see only doom for Cooper, who seems to have been hit by every diamond figure in the National League, including the bat boys.

The "goat" flipper has been hearing "goat" so much these days that he must know how the Yankee batters have lost most of their respect for moundwork, and therein lies the greatest sadness of all—knowing that the man standing at the plate thinks he can hit you any time he feels like it. If that doesn't tear a pitcher's confidence, to shreds, nothing will, and this indicates that even one victory by Cooper over the Yankees and his mental burden will establish him as the most iron-willed player in the game.

Gordon On Upgrade
Gordon, on the other hand, has not become accustomed to cries of "goat," and many look forward to (Continued On Next Page)

Durocher's Wife Granted Divorce

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—(INS)—Mrs. Grace L. Durocher held a divorce decree today from Leo Durocher manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team.

The decree was granted Friday by Judge William H. Killoren after he heard Mrs. Durocher charged the Brooklyn manager with "general indignities." Durocher was not in court but the charge was denied by his counsel.

Judge Killoren ordered the defendant to pay all court costs, including attorney fees. No alimony was sought. Mrs. Durocher explaining that she received sufficient income from her job as a dress designer.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Selective Service headquarters statement that baseball is not grounds for occupational deferment is just a reissue of a "water is wet" opinion as far as being a startling bit of information is concerned, according to Whitney Martin, writer. He goes on to say that as far as he is concerned he has never read of Commissioner Landis, Ford Frick or Will Harridge suggesting that the game is essential. If baseball had been considered an essential industry there are several hundred athletes in the service who weren't in on the secret. He explains the S. S. headquarters statement came as the result of Al Zarilla, a St. Louis father, being reclassified 1A and his wife left to take a war job in California. Martin goes on to explain that "to say that baseball might be considered an essential industry because it is necessary for morale is just so much 'malarky'." He writes that whenever he heard that word "morale" associated with anything at home he thought of the cartoon of the two mud-smeared doughboys in a fox-hole, with one of them scribbling on a piece of paper and remarking: "Guess I'd better write the folks and cheer them up a little; I hear the morale back there is pretty low." Zarilla was the first ball player ordered to get out of the game and into a war job or else.

ANGOTT EASILY LACES PERALTA

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—(INS)—Boxing fans were convinced today Sammy Angott, of Washington, Pa., still had that old punching skill after winning a decision over Joey Peralta, Douglas, Ariz., Mexican, in a ten-round bout last night.

Angott, generally recognized as lightweight champion until his retirement, made his first start in four months. He kept the 5,000 fans cheering through most of the close fight.

Although there were no knockdowns, Peralta finished with a gash over his right eye and Angott was bleeding at the lips.

Gordon Cooper '42 Series Goats Seek Revenge

seeing him tear apart the 1943 series. His average to date—239—does not establish Gordon as a prime candidate for series honors but Joe has been picking up of late and has been bowling over left-handed pitchers like tenpins.

The American league was idle yesterday, since St. Louis did not play in New York nor Cleveland in Philadelphia. In the National league, the St. Louis Cardinals handed the New York Giants a 7 to 1 trouncing behind the six-hit pitching of Harry Gumbert, whose arm was supposed to be dead. While Gumbert checked the Giants, his clubmates ran up a total of 11 hits off Rube Fischer and Ace Adams.

This was great news for St. Louis Manager Billy Southworth, since Gumbert had been relegated to the boneyard because of circulatory trouble in his right arm.

Rookie Walter Signer pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 3 to 1 triumph over the Boston Braves. Signer allowed them ten hits but kept them scattered in every inning except the third, when a double and a single accounted for the Braves' lone run.

The Cincinnati Reds lost to Brooklyn in 11 innings last night by a score of 2 to 1. Bucky Walters thus lost his chance of winning his ninth victory of the season. Ed Head of the Dodgers. The winning run came in the 11th frame when Dixie Walker singled off Walter's bare hand and Billy Herman tripled to right-putting Dix over the plate.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers
Are Outlined Here

Monday meeting will be held at 8 p. m., Post 3-2, Tony Ricciardi, senior warden, at Sam Bassano's office.

Tuesday meetings: 7:30 p. m., Post 2-3, at Temple Israel; 8 p. m., Post 2-6, at William Hodgkinson, assistant senior warden, in charge. 8 p. m., Post 4-7, at 1220 Randolph street, Carl Krueger, senior warden.

Here is a bulletin from the city OCD:

Considerable confusion has arisen among the auxiliary police and the air raid wardens, since they read a submitted article published in this column Wednesday evening regarding the use of headlights in blackout periods. The following is offered for guidance of all concerned:

Page 1 of the same pamphlet on Rules and Regulations, captioned "Air Raid Red Signal," paragraph 2, "movement of vehicles and other conveyances." During period of air raid practice or actual from the time of the air raid red signal is given, and until the mobilization and blackout BLUE signal is given, thereafter, only emergency vehicles as defined below may move during this period and during hours of darkness, may use only headlights on low or depressed beam, and normal tail light's and license plate light's.

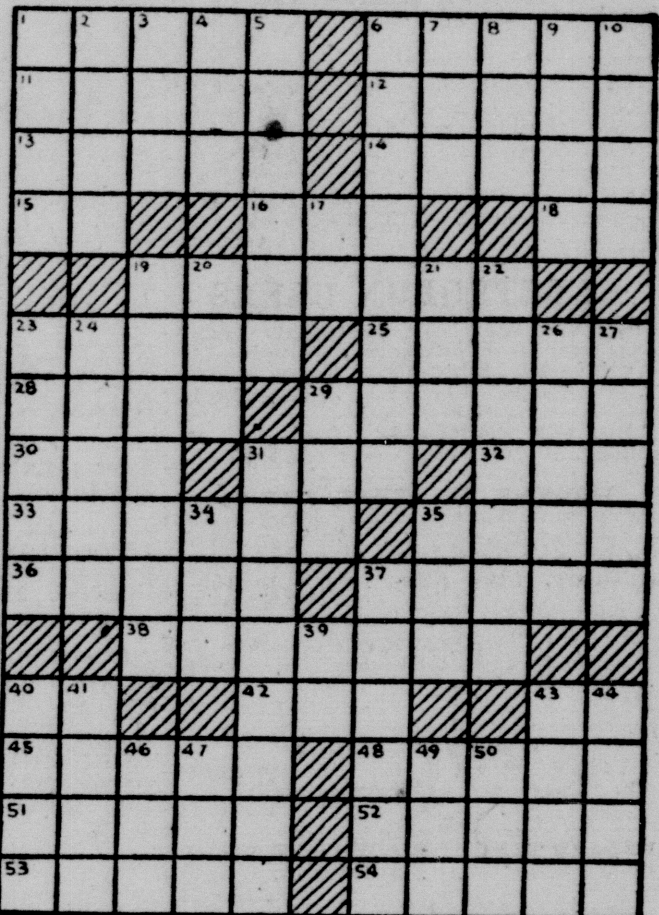

Previous to the issuing of this order in February of this year, cars were required to operate on the lowest lighting device of any car. This required many cars to operate on parking lights. Some of our OCD personnel are still demanding vehicle operators to use parking lights to drive during time of BLUE blackout period. By reading the above you can see where they have been mistaken.

The city office OCD has also been recommending that due to the many types of headlights in use, some of which cannot be brought down to what some people may say is a low beam, that we pay first attention to getting our automobiles blacked out, leaving the headlights and other traffic until the red signal is sounded, then they must also black out excepting those emergency vehicles which will be called upon to travel.

The above rules can all be found in the handbook titled "Rules and Regulations," issued by the Lawrence County Council of Defense, on page 10 and page 11. These rules are the rules set up by the state and copied into handbook form by the Lawrence County Council of Defense. This office has not been notified of any change.—Frank Sargent, city OCD co-ordinator.

IT SHOULD BE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—After 16 months on Midway Island, where he served as a marine corps platoon sergeant with all the worst of the battling with the Japs, Alfred Aguilar should look upon college football as child's play.

Aguilar, a Palute Indian who has been transferred to training in the navy air corps, is a navy V-5 student at Marquette university.

INVITATION MEET

CAMP ABBOT, Ore.—Portland matchmakers have invited Tony Dittorio, veteran of nearly 125 amateur fights in New England cities, to appear on a fight program. Dittorio is now a private in a Camp Abbot engineer battalion.

START DEFENSE IN POISON CASE

Prosecution Concludes Testimony In Murder Trial At Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 2.—(INS)—Defense attorneys today began a battle to save beautiful Nancy Jeanette Holt, 29-year-old blonde Oklahoman charged with systematically poisoning her husband, from death in the electric chair.

Shortly after the state concluded its case against the statuesque widow, Mrs. Holt's attorneys filed a demurrer claiming the prosecution had failed to prove conclusively the woman poisoned her husband, Jesse, 33 operator of a tractor on the "big inch" pipeline, but Judge Challen W. Waychoff denied the motion and ordered the trial to continue.

Throughout yesterday's testimony Prosecutor James Isherwood sought to trace the purchase of deadly poison to Mrs. Holt prior to the death of the construction worker last May 27 under mysterious circumstances.

William Glenn Headlee, Waynesburg druggist, took the stand to tell the jury that the defendant purchased arsenic from him upon two occasions. He produced a "poison ledger" to reinforce his testimony.

A second clerk in a Waynesburg drug store, Frank Ganier, swore that in the middle of May a woman, whom he positively identified as Mrs. Holt, likewise bought arsenic from him.

The state has contended that Mrs. Holt, angered by her husband's philanderings in Waynesburg taverns with other women, poisoned her happy-go-lucky spouse in easy stages by feeding him arsenic in small doses over a period of several months.

Health Talks By DR. W. A. WOMER City Health Superintendent

CUTS

For a small clean cut on the arm or leg, put a clean folded handkerchief or bandage on it. Press firmly for a few minutes till the bleeding stops. Apply a bandage and leave it on.

If the cut is large and there is much bleeding, put on a tourniquet. A tourniquet is something tight around a limb. Use something like a large handkerchief or a towel or a belt. Wrap it around the limb above the cut and tighten or twist it gently till the bleeding stops. Do not make it one bit tighter than enough to stop the bleeding.

After the bleeding stops, you can take the time to get a doctor.

Pays Tribute To War Correspondent Killed In Battle

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(INS)—A glowing tribute to the courage and talent of Jack Singer, International News Service war correspondent killed in the sinking of the aircraft carrier Wasp, was paid today by Capt. Maurice M. Witherspoon, former chaplain of the vessel.

"I knew Singer well," said Captain Witherspoon as he assumed his new post as district chaplain for the third naval district. "When he joined us we immediately took him into our confidence. His character was such as to inspire trust."

"Able, fearless and a gifted writer, he was as much at home with the enlisted men as with the officers. He was completely casual about his last assignment, although he, perhaps more than many, knew of the dangers involved."

FALLS TO DEATH

Two Members Of Crew Are Missing
In Freight Wreck

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 2.—(INS)—Two crewmen on a New Jersey Central Railroad fast freight were reported missing today, believed to have been crushed under an overturned locomotive when their train sideswiped a Delaware and Hudson Railroad engine in Plains township.

The missing men, identified as Frank McDonald of Scranton and Ike Boston of Wilkes-Barre, were on the Central engine when the crash occurred. Their associates and members of the Delaware and Hudson crews escaped injury and joined in rescue operations.

Approximately 35 Central cars loaded with merchandise remained on the tracks and although damage was not believed heavy other than to the engines, traffic was suspended holding up mail and coal shipments.

Dr. Lewis Reese, county coroner, and other officials launched an investigation.

State College War Training
Classes Still Open For Men And Women

Robert S. Sadler, administrative head of the Pennsylvania state college war training classes in New Castle, has announced that additional registration will still be accepted for two courses on Tuesday from seven to nine p. m. at the New Castle senior high school in room 118. Registration is open to both men and women.

Registration for the courses, tool design and manufacturing procedures, last week was large enough to divide into two classes for each subject. This division has made room for additional students.

"Tool Design" offers students the opportunity to secure employment in war industries as designers of tools and jigs, and offers persons now employed the opportunity to prepare for an advancement in their present job. The student is trained in the theory underlying the design of jigs and special tools used in industrial work.

"Manufacturing Procedures" train employable persons for immediate employment as production clerks, supervisors and inspectors for war industries. The students will receive a review of mathematics through trigonometry, interpretation of inspection gauges, industrial organization as it pertains to production, inspection and supervision.

These classes are tuition free and the only expense to the student is the purchase of a text book and necessary supplies.

New Castle men and women are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to further their education and above all help our all-out war effort.
